

AMERICAN COMPANY ON WEST FRONT CUT OFF AND RADED BY GERMANS

(Associated Press by U. S. Naval Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8.—American soldiers have clashed with the Germans on the western front. Details of the first actual engagement of an American force in France with the enemy were received in Associated Press despatches here and confirmed by the war department.
Advancing under the protection of a heavy barrage, a German raiding party shortly before daylight, on the morning of November 3, stormed and took a trench held by the American infantry, killing three, wounding five and capturing twelve.
The war department last night announced that the Americans were occupying a small salient for instructional purposes when they were cut off from the main body of the Allies by a heavy bombardment by the Germans. The losses of the enemy are not known, but one German, wounded, was captured.
General Pershing's cable gave the first details of the American fighting. His message said:
"Before daylight on November 3, a salient occupied by a company of American infantry which was there for instruction purposes, was raided. The Germans put down a heavy barrage fire cutting off this salient from the rest of the line.
"Our losses were three killed, five wounded and twelve captured or missing, while the losses of the enemy are unknown beyond one German, who was wounded and made a prisoner."
The war department gave out the list of killed, wounded and missing following its first announcement last night.

broken diplomatic relations with Germany and aligned herself with the Entente Allies.
The cablegram, which is self-explanatory, reads, in effect, as follows:
"These Chinese foreign office cables that the bogus Canton military government propose to float a loan of $50,000,000 in the Straits Settlements and America. Further instructions are to arrange with American authorities to circulate instructions to subordinates to prohibit the purchase of bonds, and to prohibit assistance in floating the loan. You are to enjoin the Nationals (Chinese) to beware of impositions. The Chinese government is not responsible for the redemption of the loan. Telegraph any steps taken."
From various sources, and largely from Chinese newspapers, in Peking, Consul Woolhuan has received information to the effect that Doctor Sen is receiving the aid of pro-Germans in this movement. It is also understood here that Cuba, Canada and Hawaii are included in the several localities where it is expected to float the loan.
Consul Woolhuan points out that Doctor Sen was vigorously opposed to China severing diplomatic relations with Germany. It was after this opposition had been voiced, and China had broken relations, that Doctor Sen was ousted as commander of the southern army and forced to flee the country with a price on his head. Because he opposed breaking with Germany is one of the reasons advanced for the interest of German capital in his project to overthrow the present Chinese government and set himself up as its head.

NEXT TRAINING CAMP TO ADMIT MEN FROM N. G. H.

Enlisted men of the National Guard of Hawaii who belong to organizations which existed before July 13 of this year are eligible for appointment to the training camp at Schofield Barracks to open on January 5, 1918.
This is the announcement made today at army headquarters and officers there estimate roughly that from 28 to 30 me will be the number apportioned to the camp from the National Guard of this territory.
Full instructions regarding the admission of guardsmen have not been received at army headquarters, but as soon as they arrive will be published immediately for the benefit of guardsmen who may wish to apply for this course of training. Applications will be made at the proper time through the usual channels to the National Guard commander.
The Schofield camp will be one of the third series of training camps throughout the country. It begins, with others, on January 5 and closes on April 5, 1918.
The general purpose of the camps is to train men as officers to fill vacancies that may occur in the regular army, National Guard and national army. Upon completing the course candidates will be eligible for commission as second lieutenants and will be commissioned as vacancies occur.

DECAPITATION ACCIDENT IS TO BE INVESTIGATED

The inquest into the death of Manuel Cordeiro of Kahili, who was killed yesterday morning when a counter weight on an elevator in the B. F. Ehlers' store struck him, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Immediately after the accident yesterday the coroner's jury, which was in session at police headquarters, visited Ehlers' store and viewed the scene of the accident.
The emergency hospital ambulance was called to Ehlers' store yesterday and Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie went to the scene of the accident. After questioning the employees it developed that Cordeiro had taken precautions before entering the shaft-pit to prevent just such an accident. He apparently realized the danger of working in the shaft, for he had placed a four-inch wooden beam across the surrounding from beams to prevent the weights from falling on him while he was working. The elevator, rising to the third floor, caused the weights to drop, striking the protecting wooden beam. Cordeiro probably believed that the elevator could not reach the third floor if the weights were prevented from falling further.
A few minutes later Cordeiro struck his head between the I-beams to speak to the workman in the next shaft-pit, when the two-ton weight dropped, beheading him.
Sheriff Charles Rose was notified of the accident, and the coroner's jury, which was holding an inquest at the time on the body of the Chinese electrocuted Tuesday night, proceeded to the store and went over the scene of the accident.

A Sensitive Society Subject

Toilet and hygienic cleanliness is a subject of much interest to the scientific, social and laity world. It deserves all the attention it is receiving, and a great deal more, because upon a better understanding of its value rests the comfort and longevity of the human race. The way to obtain and retain it is, of course, to keep clean, and to do this from a toilet and hygienic standpoint there is nothing more suitable than Tyree's Antiseptic Powder. The nature of the composition of this article makes it an almost indispensable adjunct to the toilet of every careful woman who appreciates the value and comfort of hygienic cleanliness. Tyree's Antiseptic Powder has a large and growing number of friends in the scientific, social and laity world. In solution when used for diseases of the mucous membrane and for prickly heat, poison oak, tender feet, offensive perspiration, etc., and in many other ways peculiar to woman's requirements, it is unequalled.
Tyree's Powder does not stain, possesses no odor, and its use is accompanied by a most delightful sensation. Being inexpensive, its employment is not opposed by patients of moderate means. It is sold in original packages only at twenty-five cents and one dollar each, by the manufacturer, J. S. Tyree, Chemist, Inc., Washington, D. C.

Raider Captain Taken Prisoner By Unarmed Boat

Seeadler's Commander Diverts Pursuit of Balance of Crew By Plausible Yarn

Count von Luckner, commander of the German raider Seeadler, that expert in camouflage who disguised his vessel so well that she was passed by a British blockade naval officer in the North Atlantic as a Norwegian ship, was successful for a while with another subterfuge after he was captured in Tahiti.
After the Seeadler was wrecked at Mopeha island he and five others of the raider crew left the little island in a motor launch armed with a machine gun in the hope of capturing another vessel. On Mopeha island the balance of the Seeadler crew, 61 men, were left to await his return.
Several days later the count and his five companions were captured by Fijian constabulary aboard the unarmed steamer Amra. After his capture Count von Luckner boasted that Seeadler had destroyed 25 vessels of the Allies in the Atlantic and several others in the Pacific.
But he successfully evaded giving any details of where the Seeadler and the balance of the crew were by concocting the story that the German raider had been burned at sea. He said the fire occurred 2000 miles from land and that he and the five others were the only ones who had escaped. His story was so plausible it was accepted as the truth, and the Fijian authorities were diverted from making a search for the balance of the Germans who with 30 American sailors were then marooned on Mopeha.
Sometime afterward Capt. Halbor Smith reached Pago-Pago and the world learned that the German crew

FISHING RIGHTS ARE PROBED BY COMMISSIONERS

That steps should be taken toward the condemnation of all private fishing rights in Hawaii so that the public might be free to use them, thus breaking up the monopoly on these grounds which is reported to now be in existence, is the contention of the territorial food commission, and circular letters are now being sent to the owners of these rights asking them to furnish the commission with all information concerning them.
The fishing rights in question are those created under the Organic Act. The food commission believes that, after condemnation, they should be taken over either by the territorial or by the federal government and thrown open to the public, thus making the fishing and bait grounds free to all.

had captured the French vessel Lutec and put to sea. If it had not been for the subterfuge used by Count von Luckner it is probable a cruiser would have gone immediately to Mopeha and have captured or killed the balance of the German raiders.

Count Luckner was incensed when he learned that he had been captured by an unarmed vessel, the Amra, Luckner asserted he surrendered willingly because he thought the Amra was armed. All the Germans were also disgusted when they were told that the Tahitian police craft carried no large guns.

Since the 61 Germans in the Lutec left Mopeha island nothing has been heard of them, although the American sailors marooned there have since been rescued. Allied cruisers are still believed to be searching for the Lutec in the southern Pacific.

The circular letter asks for information on the value of the sea fisheries, the price paid for each right if purchased and the revenue derived from each. This matter may be taken up at the public hearing on the fish question tomorrow afternoon.

JUDGE ASHFORD TO DECIDE I.-I. CASE SATURDAY

Circuit Judge C. W. Ashford today took under advisement the motion of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Co. to dissolve the temporary injunction and restraining order issued against it at the instance of the public utilities commission. Judge Ashford announced that he would render a decision at 9 o'clock next Saturday morning.

The temporary injunction enjoined the company from refusing to obey an order of the commission that it return to the schedule of freight and passenger rates in effect in 1916. This order was the result of an exhaustive investigation of the company's business conducted by the board.

Shortly after the issuance of the order the company gave notice that it would increase its rates and that the new schedule would go into effect on October 15. The company held that these rates had been approved by the federal shipping board and that it could not alter them without the board's approval. The utilities commission then brought the injunction suit, and the provisions of the temporary injunction are now being obeyed by the company, it having reduced its rates to the 1916 schedule.

Attorneys C. F. Clemons and E. M. Watson argued today for the utilities commission. The steamship company was represented by Attorneys W. L. Whitney and David L. Withington.

DEATH CLAIMS QUAINT MEMBER OF OLD REGIME

One of the few remaining figures prominent in the royal and monarchial days of Hawaii passed away this morning when death called E. K. Liliuokalani, until recently connected with the territorial tax office, and known to nearly every Hawaiian in the island group because of his political activity before and after annexation.

Death came to him at his home at 415 South Queen street at 9:30 o'clock this morning after a very short illness. Not more than four days ago he was about town and dropped in at the tax office at the judiciary building.

Genial to the highest degree, and as fond of a joke as an Irishman, this combined with a penchant for following the extreme dictate of fashionable dressing, he was a character almost as well known to the haole population as to the Hawaiians, and equally as well liked by his acquaintances, whatever their race.

Under the reign of King Kalakaua he held a major's commission, and also during the reign of Queen Liliuokalani. He was the vice-chamberlain under Col. C. P. Hanna, and always received the guests at all state functions given by the two early day Hawaiian rulers.

Mr. Liliuokalani was decorated by both King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani, and held the Royal Order of Oceansia and the Order of Kapilani and Kalakaua. He was a professed Christian throughout his life and one of the staunch members of the Kawaiahao church.

Besides his court positions Mr. Liliuokalani was also a member of the legislature under both the kingdom and the territory. His last try for election to public office was in 1914 when he was a candidate for supervisor.

One of Major Liliuokalani's last public appearances was at the birthday reception given by Queen Liliuokalani last September.

The age of the deceased has not been definitely established, but he is believed by his acquaintances and friends to have been at least 48.

The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Kawaiahao church. The body will be on view at William's undertaking parlors after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Burial will be in the Kawaiahao church cemetery.

RUBBER.

At the Singapore Rubber Auctions commencing Wednesday, plantation pale crepe realized 53 cents per pound. The New York price for the corresponding date was 63½ cents.
